CALL FOR PAPERS

GILE JOURNAL OF SKILLS DEVELOPMENT

ISSN 2732-3781

"GJSD. Sharing today. Shaping tomorrow."

Submission open

The GILE Journal of Skills Development (GJSD) invites authors to submit research articles and other forms of output for its next issue. GJSD (gjsd.gile-edu.org) is an open-access, double-blind peer-reviewed, international scientific journal published by the Pact4Youth Association and indexed by – among others - DOAJ, ERIHPLUS, OpenAire, Google Scholar, and Research Commons (Clarivate). No submission fee (APC) is required, and all articles are available free-of-charge upon online publication (CC BY 4.0).

The published articles are added to MTMT (Hungarian Science Bibliography) where GJSD is listed as a qualified, selected journal. All output is assigned a permanent identifier (DOI) and its metadata is deposited to Crossref, while the output itself is preserved using the PKP PN service of the Public Knowledge Project.

GJSD offers a publication opportunity to both experienced and relatively new researchers interested in the field of Transdisciplinary skills development for young people. GJSD welcomes research articles from PhD students, postdoctoral researchers and professionals.

Contributions are welcomed from any relevant discipline (e.g., agriculture, business, education, healthcare, natural sciences, etc) if they are appropriately linked to the Aims & Scope of the journal. Indicative Topics highlight areas of particular relevance to GJSD. This includes topics on Education, Learning, and Human Development; Work, Careers, and Organisations; Technology, Society, and Skill; and Inclusive Opportunity, Sustainability, and Global Perspectives.

GJSD accepts all types of research output, e.g., original Research papers, including case studies, action research, citizen science papers, and Perspectives (e.g., Food for Thought articles, Practical Proposals for Social Impact).

For submission, please familiarise yourself with the Journal's Aims & Scope and the Guide for Authors, and submit your research paper at gjsd.gile-edu.org.
